GREEKS REPORT ROUT OF CRACK ITALIAN FORCES

Athens Radio Says Invaders Have Lost Battle in All Sectors.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Nov. 11—A smashing effort of Italy's crack Alpine Centaur division—trained for a year in Albania for a lightning smash through the mountains into Greece—was reported today by the Greek high command which said large units of the division were annihilated.

Greece's highland troops were said to have swept onto the offensive along the whole 100-mile fighting front, routed the Centaur division in the Pindus mountains, wiped out two Fascist battalions along the Kalamas river on the Italian right flank, and crumbled the Italian left wing at bombarded Koritza, in Albania.

Greek confidence grew apace as the first downpours of the four month winter rainy season made slush of snow in the mountain passes, deepened the mud in the lowland roads and threatened to bog down mechanized war.

The Italian invaders of Greece "have lost the battle in all sectors and are retreating in disorder toward Albania," the Greek radio declared today.

Thus the radio summarized a series of Greek successes which it said had been won in 15 days of bitter warfare "despite the superiority of the Italian forces."

Pindus Mountain Gains

Principal gains claimed today by the high command were in the Pindus mountains, central section of the border battlefront, where the Italian Alpine division was trapped in an attempted drive toward Metsovon, northeast of Ioannina.

What was left of the division was reported retreating in disorder, leaving behind uncounted dead and almost all its equipment—even medical supplies.

"Enemy losses in dead and wounded were very heavy. A large number of prisoners was taken and a great quantity of all sorts of war material not yet counted fell into our hands," a communique said.

To the west, toward the coast, where the Italians started their first wedge into Epirus almost two weeks ago, the Greeks were said to have stopped another Italian attack over the week-end, annihilated two battalions, and forced the invaders back under heavy artillery fire.

Italian Defenses Under Fire

From heights overlooking the encircled Italian base at Koritza, at the opposite end of the battlefront, additional Greek guns hauled into position through ice and slush were reported to be continuing a steady bombardment, reducing Italian defenses for a final assault.

The Athens radio alleged Italian prisoners reported that Albanian troops fighting alongside Italian units had been machine-gunned from the back when they retreated.

Unfavorable weather brought a let-up in Italian air raids. Two towns on the island of Crete were reported bombed yesterday.

A Greek spokesman pointed to the change in Italian commanders in the campaign from Albania and said it indicated the view at Rome that the drive has been a failure.

YOUTHFUL BICYCLIST SERIOUSLY INJURED

Jack Hecker, 16, in Hospital After Crash.

Jack Hecker, 16, of Bellaire Gardens was seriously injured when his bicycle was struck by an automobile on North Main street extension about 2 a. m. yesterday.

Yesterday attendants at City hospital reported his condition was "poor" but this morning they said it was improved. The attending physician said his condition at present is very serious," but expressed the opinion Hecker will recover unless complications develop. He suffered internal injuries, a fractured collarbone and fracture of the right shoulder blade, the physician reported.

Hecker's bicycle was struck by a car driven by Ray Altman Jr., of near Lexington, O., who told highway patrolmen and city police that the bicycle was northbound on the west side of the highway. Altman was quoted as saying that there were no lights on the bicycle and that he failed to see the bicycle due to rain and darkness.

The officers reported that the car and the bicycle apparently collided head-on, hurling Hecker several yards. He was taken to the hospital in the Boyd ambulance.

At the time of the accident Hecker was enroute to his home in Bellaire Gardens at the north edge of the city, the officers said. The bicycle was demolished and minor damage resulted to the front section of the car, highway patrolmen said.

First Physical Exams in Draft Are Held Here

Marion county's first physical examinations under the selective service act were conducted yesterday, all the men examined passing without difficulty.

They will be placed in Class 1-A by their draft board, No. 2, which means that they are qualified for general military service in every way.

The final report on their physical condition will not be made, however, until results of laboratory tests are known and until another complete checkup by army physicians after they leave Marion probably late this month.

In Volunteer List

The four men who passed are all volunteers and were examined by Dr. T. H. Sutherland, draft examiner, at his office. They are:

Charles Alan Shealy, 22, of 301 South Vine street, Order No. 543.

Jack P. Markwith, 22, of 398 East Center street, Order No. 11.

No other calls for physical examinations have been issued in the county. Registered men are advised not to report for physical examination unless they receive formal notification from their boards to that effect.

Yesterday's examination required about a half-hour each.

The examining physicians receive no pay for their services. The government furnishes only supplies used in the examinations.

The examinations held in Marion are primarily for the purpose of weeding out the obviously unfit. The later examinations by army doctors will be more detailed and searching.

The Number System

The draft boards have received numerous requests from registrants, indicating there is widespread misunderstanding as to

TWO MAJOR PROPOSALS ON COUNCIL'S PROGRAM

Fire Equipment and Anti-Gambling Legislation Scheduled.

Two major proposals are scheduled for consideration tonight when city council holds a regular semi-monthly meeting at city hall at 7:30.

One is legislation which will pave the way for purchase of approximately $50,000 worth of fire equipment, needed to prevent a boost in fire insurance rates. The rate boost has been threatened by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, rate making group for insurance companies.

Another is legislation designed to modernize and tighten the city's anti-gambling ordinance. This was brought up at council's last meeting but a vote was delayed. If all council members are not present tonight, it might be delayed again, Mayor Snare reported today.

ITALIAN PLANE REPORT

ROME, Nov. 11 — Italian authorities asserted today that Italy's forces had destroyed at least 515 "enemy" planes since her entrance into the war, while losing only 86 planes.

RED CROSS SET TO OPEN DRIVE

Several Hundred Ready To Start Annual County Roll Call Tomorrow.

Several hundred men and women in Marion city and county will start out Tuesday morning on the 1940 Marion County Red Cross chapter roll call. The goals this year are 4,500 members and $8,175.

Ralph E. Carhart, roll call chairman, and chapter officials hope to have the annual drive completed in a week.

The first report dinner will be Wednesday night at 6 in the second floor assembly room at the Y. M. C. A. The special gifts committee, headed by C. E. Sechrist, expected to complete its work today.

24th in State

Marion county's Red Cross chapter stands twenty-fourth in the state in membership, Miss Lillian Plack, executive secretary, said today. Last year only 8.91 per cent of the population of the county was enrolled. Realization of the 1940 goal of 4,500 members will raise substantially the county's standing, she pointed out, adding that the aim this year is to have every member of a family a member of the chapter.

The increased budget this year is the result of the home defense service program which each county chapter has been called on to set up.

Membership in the Red Cross is one dollar or more. However, only 50 cents of each membership, whether it is $1 or $100 goes to the American Red Cross, the balance remaining in Marion county to carry out the chapter's work.

Look for Badge

For the protection of those who will be solicited this week, Miss Plack asked that no money be given any solicitor, man or woman, who does not wear a Red Cross worker's badge and who is not supplied with membership cards, Red Cross window stickers and Red Cross buttons.

Members are urged to wear their buttons during roll call and to display the stickers in windows of their business places and homes.

Posters and flags were up

Britain Mourns Passing of Neville Chamberlain

Public Memorial Service Planned for Statesman Who Fought in Vain for Peace.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 11—Plans for a public memorial service—possibly in Westminster Abbey—were being arranged today for Neville Chamberlain who died Saturday amid the bomb-strewn wreckage of his dream for "peace in our time."

The tall, lean statesman who led Britain from the Munich appeasement through the first eight and one-half months of war with Germany resigned as prime minister May 10 after the British withdrawal from Norway and stepped from his last cabinet post little more than a month ago an exhausted, ill man.

He died at 5:30 p. m. Saturday (11:30 a. m. eastern standard time) at his Hampshire countryside estate where the grounds near his rambling, sixteenth century home have been pock-marked by Nazi bomb craters. He was 71.

At the wish of his family, his death was not announced until Sunday morning—after parishioners at the neighborhood church had prayed for his recovery.

Praised by Press

The press praised Chamberlain as an "honest statesman" who did his best to save peace without attempting to sidestep criticism of the results of his policies.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth headed the list of many who sent private messages to the family. During his illness they recently spent an hour at his bedside.

Official tributes awaited the next session of parliament when Chamberlain's staunch friend Winston Churchill, who succeeded him as prime minister, will speak in his honor along with other senior statesmen.

Under a heading, "He Served Britain," the Daily Mail said today "Neville Chamberlain will be remembered as a sincere, high-minded, stedfast statesman. His successes and his failures all sprang from one abiding motive—to serve right in serving Britain."

Brings Talk of Shifts

Chamberlain's death revived rumors in political circles of new changes in the government.

It was suggested that his long-time associate, Lord Halifax, be shifted from the foreign office to the India office. There, the Laborite Daily Herald said, he would be "probably better qualified than anyone to heal the present lamentable breach" with India.

These reports also mentioned Was Secretary Anthony Eden, who broke with Chamberlain over the appeasement program, as the possible successor to Lord Halifax in the foreign office.

Chamberlain, the second successive British steel magnate to occupy the post of prime minister and the third of his immediate family to play a leading role in contemporary British history, was a hard-headed business man who was nearly 50 years old before he became a national figure.

Despite this, and despite too the overshadowing brilliance of his father, Joseph Chamberlain, and his half-brother, Sir J. Austen Chamberlain, he went higher than either of them. It fell to his lot, in fact, to carry through the project that was dearest to the heart of his father when, in 1932, as chancellor of the exchequer, he introduced an empire-preference tariff schedule in his budget. This reversed the century-old British policy of free imports, a project for which his father had fought vainly from 1903 until his death in 1914. With Austen Chamberlain among his parliamentary auditors, the son said:

"I believe he would have found consolation for the bitterness of

An all-network hookup of about 450 stations will carry Wendell Willkie's announced "message to the American people" tonight. The half-hour address from New York at 10:30 is scheduled for NBC, CBS and MBS.

Willkie is expected to express his views on what course his supporters should follow during the next administration of President Roosevelt.

He and his wife expect to leave on a vacation Wednesday or Thursday. They will go to Rushville, Ind., Mrs. Willkie's home town.

Funeral Thursday for Sen. Pittman, Head of Senate Foreign Committee

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—The unexpected death of Sen. Key Pittman (D-Nev.) gave post-election Washington a suddenly somber atmosphere today but, since governments must go on, Senator George (D-Ga.) was soon mentioned as the most likely man to succeed him as head of the important senate foreign relations committee.

Pittman, one-time Klondike sourdough, member of the senate since 1912, and chairman of the foreign relations committee since 1933, died Sunday at 3:25 a. m., Marion time, at Washoe General hospital in Reno, Nev. He was stricken Monday, the eve of his reelection for a sixth term in the senate and suffered a heart attack early Sunday.

President Roosevelt, saying he was "shocked and deeply grieved," led those in the capital who expressed regret at the Nevada Senator's death. Secretary Hull, with whom Pittman worked closely on matters of foreign affairs, said he was "grieved and distressed beyond measure." Colleagues and associates likewise voiced their sorrow.

New Tremors Felt as Rumania Lists Hundreds Dead in Quake

More Buildings Topple, Trapping Rescue Workers, After Worst Earthquake in Country's History.

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, RUMANIA, Nov. 11—Thousands fled from homes and offices in mid-morning today as several new earth tremors shook Bucharest, toppling balconies while explosions and fires in ruins of an apartment block where nearly 200 still are entombed killed an undetermined number of Iron Guard rescue workers.

Flames spread through the debris from bursting gasoline tanks, sealing the doom of all those trapped within and it was impossible to learn how many men searching for victims had gone to their deaths.

The known death toll from Sunday morning's violent quake, the worst Rumania has ever known, mounted steadily as communications were reestablished with provinces where village after village reported fatalities, but officials still were reluctant to admit that the final total would be more than 1,000 to 2,000.

Starts Oil Fires

The quake, besides destroying whole villages, leveled masses of buildings in Bucharest and set raging fires in rich Rumanian oil fields.

Properly damage mounted into tens of millions of dollars in the 5,000-square-mile area affected by the three-minute temblor, which left thousands injured, homeless and terror-stricken.

Tens of thousands of German soldiers quartered in the kingdom pitched in swiftly to help in the rescue work, which was hampered seriously by broken communications, including almost complete suspension of rail traffic because of collapsed bridges and buckled tracks.

(Some neutral military observers considered the damage might constitute a stiff blow to possible German plans to move large numbers of troops through Rumania for a Balkan campaign. They also pointed out the damage to oil fields might slow down the flow of Rumanian oil to the Nazi military machine).

Centered at Focsani

The quake, whose center was in Focsani, a city of 50,000 in the eastern Carpathian foothills about 100 miles north of Bucharest, struck at 3:39 a. m. (8:39 p. m. Saturday, E.S.T.)

Focsani and Galati, a city of 102,000 population on the Danube, were believed to have been the worst hit cities.

Bucharest's newest and most modern apartment building, a 10-story structure, collapsed at the very beginning of the quake and officials estimated 300 men, women and children were trapped in the wreckage.

Thirty bodies had been recovered last night from the wrecked building and 15 persons were brought out barely alive. Two others were found conscious.

"It took about two minutes for the building to fall," a newsboy who saw it related. "All that time I heard the horrible sound of human screams. Then came sudden silence."

Campina, a thickly-populated town about 100 miles northwest of Bucharest, was reported to be

WOMAN LEAPS AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Narrowly Escapes Death in Accident Near Galion.

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 11—Mrs. Mabel Ritzhaupt of northwest of Galion narrowly escaped injury and possible death when her car was completely demolished Saturday evening when struck by an east bound train south of Galion.

Mrs. Ritzhaupt told Galion police she jumped from her car just before the train struck the car.

According to the police report the accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. when Frank Wilson, driving south, had crossed the railroad tracks and was waiting on the right side of the road to make a left turn. Another car driven by Burton Cass stopped behind the Wilson car, being unable to pass it, and Mrs. Ritzhaupt driving behind the other two cars struck the rear of the Cass car, sending it into the Wilson car. The back part of the Ritzhaupt car was on the tracks when it stopped and the train struck it. Mrs. Ritzhaupt lives three miles north of Route 19 on the Beck road.

Legion's Services Open Observance of Armistice Day

Parade Set Tonight Called Off Due to Inclement Weather.

Talks lauding the men of the World war for their sacrifices and voicing the hope that our country will remain at peace in a world again at war were presented during memorial services conducted at 11 a. m. today on the courthouse steps by members of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 of the American Legion.

The ceremonies opened Marion's observance of Armistice day.

The parade scheduled for tonight at 7:30 was cancelled because of inclement weather, Commander R. A. Todd of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, announced at 2:15 this afternoon.

This morning's services began with a seven-minute fanfare directed by Sheriff Fred F. Miller, replacing the usual machine gun squad supplied by the National Guard, now in Mississippi. J. W. Llewellyn, chairman, opened the speaking program with a statement of purpose in which he reminded his audience, "we are assembled here today 22 years after the signing of the Armistice to render a memorial service honoring our comrades who so willingly paid the supreme sacrifice in defense of the principles of democracy."

Thankful For Peace

"Those comrades of ours loved their homes, their God and their country, yet no sacrifice was too great, no task too difficult for them to perform in carrying out the demonstration of that love. We are thankful today that America is at peace with the world and it is our wish and hope that our nation will not be upset by disturbances abroad.

Western States Caught in First Blast of Winter

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Nov. 11 — Winter's first major thrust broke with whip-lash fury over the Rocky Mountain and plains states, bringing sub-zero cold, high winds, snow and sleet today.

Twenty-one degrees below zero at Lewistown, Mont.; two and a half feet of snow in Utah's Wasatch mountains; a 50-mile an hour wind at Garden City, Kas., and drenching rain at Dallas, Tex. —these were some of the weather highlights.

Forecasts of continued cold, sub-freezing weather were general for states fringing the Rockies on the east, and warnings went out to ranchers to protect their livestock.

In Denver the temperature dropped from 58 to 15 degrees within 24 hours. Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, west Texas and the Oklahoma Panhandle were blanketed with heavy snow swept down from the north.

A chill wind whipped across much of the southwest. El Paso, Tex., experienced a 48-mile an hour wind, and dust was whipped up at Lamar, Colo., to blacken freshly-fallen snow. Santa Fe, N. M., received its first snowfall of the season. A hard snow fell in the Texas Panhandle last night.

SAYS IRON HEEL RULE ABROAD WON'T SUCCEED

President Stands Near Tomb of Unknown Soldier for Armistice Address.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—President Roosevelt voiced faith in an Armistice day speech today that democracy would survive and predicted that the people under the "iron heels" of "modern dictators or modern oligarchs" would "rebel."

"I, for one," Mr. Roosevelt said, in a speech broadcast from Arlington National cemetery, "do not believe that the era of democracy in human affairs can or will be snuffed out in our lifetime. I, for one, do not believe that mere force will be successful in sterilizing the seeds of which had taken such firm root as a harbinger of better lives for mankind.

"I, for one, do not believe that the world will revert either to a modern form of ancient slavery or two controls vested in modern feudalism or modern emperors or modern dictators or modern oligarchs in these days. The very people under their iron heels will, themselves, rebel."

At Unknown Soldier's Tomb

Standing in an amphitheater near the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the President denounced "unpatriotic efforts" which he said had been made by some Americans since the World war

Armistice Day story on U. S. soldiers' burial grounds overseas appears on Page 3.

"to make us believe that the sacrifices made by our own nation were wholly in vain."

In 1914, he said, a definite effort had been made "in a part of the world" to destroy democracy. The effort was designed, Mr. Roosevelt continued, to substitute for it the doctrine that might makes right.

"The attempt failed 22 years ago today."

A hundred years from now, Mr. Roosevelt added, historians "will say rightly" that the World war preserved "the new order of the ages" for at least a whole generation and that "if the axis of 1918 had been successful in military victory over the associated nations, resistance on behalf of democracy in 1940 would have been wholly impossible."

"Proud" of U. S. Share

"America, therefore, is proud of its share in maintaining the era of democracy in that war in which we took part. America is proud of you who served—and ever will be proud."

Today, Mr. Roosevelt continued, "we recognize certain facts of 1940 which did not exist in 1918—a need for the elimination of aggressive armaments—need for the breaking down of barriers in a more closely knitted world—a need for restoring honor in the written and spoken word.

"We recognize that the processes of democracies must be greatly improved in order that we may attain those purposes."

The text of President Roosevelt's Armistice day speech at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier follows:

Text of Address

On this day which commemorates the end of fighting between human beings in a World war it is permissible for me to search far back in the history of civilization in order to visualize important trends.

On the great seal of the United States which, for a century and a half, has reposed in the loving care of a long line of secretaries of state of the United States appear these words:

"Novus ordo seclorum" which means: "A new order of the ages."

"In almost every century since the day that recorded history began, people have thought that they were creating or establishing some kind of "new order of the ages."

But in the scheme of civilization from which ours descends I suppose that we can properly recognize that in 2,500 years there have been only a very few "new orders" in the development of human living under a thing called government.

Without question, the philosophy of orderly government in which the governed had some form of voice in a civilized society goes back to the days of ancient Greece. We must remember, however, that while the philosophy of democracy was there first expressed in words and on paper, the practice of it was by no means consistent, and was confined to a relatively small number of human beings and to a relatively small geographical area.

We came to the age of Rome—an age of strange contrasts of

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

"If any of us could look ahead," said Bob

YESTERDAY: Sally's week-end party at her and Bill's country place is already in a tangle. Sally has had a threatening letter, Aunt Maggie and Eve have crashed the party, and somebody has been giving the servants faked orders. Everybody is trying to ignore the fact that Bob and Claire are the guests of honor, and that Eve is the sinuous beauty who tried for Bob, and failed.

* * *

Bent On Trouble

OUR other guests were already in the library and Andrew was passing fresh mint juleps when we got down. A few moments later Aunt Maggie made one of her entrances, stately in black lace. Just behind her was Eve, wearing a dinner dress of heavy red satin that did almost too much for her figure. I knew she had worn it with Claire's red-gold hair in mind. But Claire, in green velvet, must have smiled to herself if she shared my thought.

I was not surprised a little later when I found Bob in the dining room, pouring himself a stiff, straight drink from one of the old Waterford decanters.

"I'm so happy about you and Claire," I told him.

"Thanks, Sally," he said, tossing off his drink and pouring himself another without even a pause between. "You know how I've always felt about Claire's money. Nearly always in debt, too. But I'm getting that cleared up...little revenue from...an old investment. Oh, well, I don't need to be talking like this to you—"

"Of course not," I agreed, and suddenly I know that it was Claire who had managed this new solvency to pave the way for their engagement. Ever so cleverly, ever so indirectly, no doubt, so Bob would never in the world suspect. But, knowing Claire, I was sure, I recognized her fine Italian hand back of it all. I wondered why she had not thought of it before.

"I'm sorry Eve had to invite herself out here," I apologized.

"Hadn't seen her since she got back to town," he said, wavering a little as he stood. "However, I shouldn't have got myself into such a mess. Seems to be one of the best things I do."

"It's because you are too kind to children and dumb animals," I told him. But I knew well enough how difficult it was for him to avoid complications. Ordinarily he was so full of nonchalance and sparkle, of such gay exuberance that your own mood lifted merely in anticipation of his approach.

He was, in short, what Aunt Maggie called "good company." She often said such people should be endowed by their less-attractive friends or by the government or somebody, because they did so much to leaven the lump of humanity in general. No doubt, she would have approved of Claire's inspiration.

Bob's Weakness

With a whimsical smile at the drink he still held in his hand, Bob said, "Well, I'm going to turn over a new leaf. Going to settle down. Going to be serious."

"Heaven forbid," I told him. "There are enough dull people in the world as it is."

"Let's have a drink on it," he suggested.

I smiled and shook my head, uncomfortable in the contradictory role of hostess and interested friend who feels that she should raise a restraining hand. We all knew Bob drank a little too much at times, but usually he carried his liquor as he did his troubles, with such casual grace that they both rather added to his attractiveness.

"Well, don't let it bother you about Eve," he said, as he downed his drink. "If any of us could look ahead and see what is likely to happen—"

Instead of finishing his observation, he refilled his glass once more and lifted it to me in a little gesture which might have been a toast or a farewell to bachelor freedom or almost anything gay and gallant, but which I suppose only meant that he was getting a bit too tight to round out his sentences.

Anyway, it was plain enough that dinner must be served at once. It would never do to have Bob pass out at his own engagement party. Eve would enjoy that far too much.

But I had hardly begun ladling tomato bisque from the lovely old Spode tureen before Eve was off again, trouble bent.

As any normal hostess, I had sat down at the table feeling a natural pride in the beauty of its appointments. The shining surface of old mahogany, high-lighted by the flame of waxen white tapers in Sheffield candelabra—the dramatic combination of blood-red and snow-white flowers—heirloom china and silver. The dependable excellence of the food about to be set before us. Champagne for celebration. I resented that all this should be needlessly spoiled not to mention the discomfort to my guests.

Eve Goes To Work

In the most dulcet of tones, as though intent upon dispensing sweetness and light for all, Eve had asked, "Been out to the Cavalier Club lately, Bob? Your luck must be picking up if you are able to undertake matrimony."

Bob flushed as he answered briefly, "No, haven't been out lately."

Although Claire went on talking in a low tone to Kirk as though she had not heard, Alice turned a look of open hatred upon Eve, and you had the feeling that everyone at the table was really listening for what Eve would say next. We all knew she and Bob had spent too much time together at the Cavalier Club shortly after Eve's divorce and that while she had won steadily Bob had lost even more steadily—sums which grew more and more spectacular, all things considered.

We did not have long to wait. "How's Big Shot?" Eve asked. "Still being a big shot?"

"Who's 'Big Shot?'" Aunt Maggie wanted to know, and we all laughed because the words sounded so funny when she said them, quite aside from providing a welcome relief from strain.

"Big Shot Anderson," Eve explained. "He runs the Cavalier Club, high-class gambling joint. Oh, yes, strictly illegal. But that's nothing for Big Shot. He used to be a bootleg king. They say he is at the bottom or the top of the numbers racket now. The bug, you know. Or would you? That's Big Shot. Nice person. Nobody you would know."

"But I did know some Andersons," said Aunt Maggie, and we all smiled again. "They came to Georgia from North Carolina and were really quite nice, though rather plain. This, er, Big Shot may be one of them."

"Well, I wouldn't say 'plain' exactly describes Big Shot Anderson." Eve remarked, a little dryly. "He's a big shot because he does things in a big way. Isn't that right, Bob?"

"Oh, by the way, my husband broke in, bent on taking the conversation away from Eve, to everybody's manifest relief. "that reminds me. I heard something today that rather indicates Atlanta is getting a pretty active underworld. Hugh Brannen was kidnaped yesterday."

"What?" we all exclaimed together, "Kidnaped?"

MARION STUDENT RANKS NEAR TOP IN TESTS

Miss Marguerite Queen of 588 East Center street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Asa Queen, is one of the highest ranking members of her class at Mather college of Western Reserve university in Cleveland, according to a news report from the university. The rating is based on results of national educational tests which the class of '42 took last spring. The tests, prepared by the American Council of Education, were given at 68 colleges throughout the country.

Miss Queen scored among the first five per cent of more than 4,500 college women who were examined.

Miss Queen's class as a whole ranked high in its three general information groups, English, general culture and current affairs, into which the tests were divided. In the English test 80 per cent of the Mather sophomores were above the national average; in contemporary affairs, 65 per cent, and in general culture, 85 per cent.

Britain Mourns Death of Neville Chamberlain

his disappointment if he could have foreseen that these proposals, which are the direct and legitimate descendants of his own conception, would be laid before the house of commons by the lips of one and in the presence of the other of the two immediate successors of his name and blood."

Gripped Foreign Affairs

Speaking on July 8, 1936, the anniversary of his father's birth, Neville said tariffs had brought prosperity to the country and that Joseph Chamberlain's prophecies had been fulfilled.

Chamberlain, as prime minister, was noted for his sound grip on foreign affairs, studied largely while he was chancellor of the exchequer under his predecessor, Stanley Baldwin. Early in his tenure he virtually took over the direction of the foreign office, gave his young foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, a vacation and tightened up the strings of British policy.

Chamberlain worked to smooth out difficulties with dictator countries. A personal note to Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy in August, 1937, on Italo-British friendship bore good fruit. But in February, 1938, when Chamberlain pursued his policy despite a German Nazi rapprochement in Austria, Eden resigned. To a tumultuous house of commons, Chamberlain shouted he had to seek understandings with Rome and Berlin to avoid war and he denounced as "sham" the League of Nations idea of opposing aggression with force.

Born In '69

Chamberlain was born March 18, 1869, second son of Joseph Chamberlain. He was christened Arthur Neville but early dropped the first name. His education was gained at Rugby and at Mason college, Birmingham.

After a few years in the business of manufacturing screws and other steel products in Birmingham, he went to the West Indies in 1890 where his father had purchased a sisal plantation. Seven years of hard work there brought no material reward, for the venture proved a failure, costing the elder Chamberlain $250,000.

Back in England Neville Chamberlain interested himself in the affairs of his native city and in 1915 became lord mayor of Birmingham, an office which his father had held 40 years before. He entered national politics in 1918 when he was elected member of parliament for the Ladywood division of Birmingham.

Many Cabinet Posts

He was postmaster general in 1922, paymaster general in 1923, chancellor of the exchequer 1923-24, minister of health 1924-29 and chancellor of the exchequer again 1931-37.

He became prime minister May 28, 1937, when Stanley Baldwin retired after engineering the abdication of Edward VIII and the coronation of George VI.

As chancellor of the exchequer Chamberlain brought his early business training and acumen into good use. He converted the great mass of World war loans into new issues with lower interest rates and so saved the taxpayers huge sums, although he later was called upon to get much of this back because of the enormous cost of the country's rearmament program.

He was in charge of the treasury when Britain departed from the gold standard in 1931, when the United States followed suit in 1933 and when war debt payments were halted. He had a hand in the muchly criticized Ottawa empire conference and in the succeeding ill-starred 1933 world economic conference at London.

In 1911 he married Annie Vere Cole, daughter of an army officer. A son and a daughter were born to them.

Unusual Hobbies

Chamberlain had some unusual hobbies and, with characteristic thoroughness, made himself something of an authority on such subjects as birds and orchids.

Another pastime was fishing. Habitually he visited salmon streams a few days before his annual budget speeches as chancellor of the exchequer. He said the peace and quiet of the sport were a great relief after the weeks of hard work and anxiety which accompanied preparation of the government's financial program.

He suffered much from gout. This was hereditary as his father frequently was attacked by the same complaint.

Chamberlain had an excellent film manner and news reel operatives were enthusiastic about him as a subject. His manner before the camera was easy and natural, his voice recorded well and his "timing" made prepared remarks sound spontaneous.

Soft Spot Revealed

Only occasionally did he reveal his innermost thoughts and feelings. One such occasion took place in Leeds when he officially opened a health clinic. He said:

"One must remember what happens to the family when the mother is taken away and young children are left who never can have the care and influence which a mother alone can exercise." Then in softer tone, he added: "My own mother died in childbirth."

Hearers recalled that as minister of health he had worked assiduously on a campaign to reduce such deaths.

In the political arena he was an uncompromising foe but his opponents appreciated his sincerity and directness of speech. His public addresses, both on the hustings and in the house of commons were delivered in a level, hard voice, were much to the point and based upon almost unimpeachable logic. He once was termed "as innocent of passion as an iceberg."

Unusual Loyalty

Friends said he was loyal to the core, to his native city, his party, its leaders and principles and to his friends.

He was leader of a powerful group of die-hard tories. As chancellor of the exchequer he was said to have been chiefly responsible for vetoing the inclusion of David Lloyd George in the "national" cabinet which Ramsay MacDonald headed after the financial debacle of the labor government in August, 1931. Later he killed all chances of that government's adopting Lloyd George's "new deal" scheme of relieving unemployment through public works.

Chamberlain had a sense of humor which came out unexpectedly when he was introducing the 1934 budget. It was known that the labor opposition had prepared a fiery outburst based upon their belief that cuts in the dole were not to be restored. Chamberlain slowly expounded his financial program and toward the end relaxed into a rare smile as he gleefully announced a full restoration of the cuts in unemployment relief and, also, a reduction in the income tax. The whole program of the labor party had to be revamped.

A Worker for Peace

He was an indefatigable worker for peace. In and out of the house of commons he voiced his desire for better international understandings and he appealed to both his countrymen and to other nations to discard suspicions.

But he was far from being a pacifist. He could appeal to Mussolini, man to man, for friendship between England and Italy, could frown officially and publicly upon proposals for sanctions against Japan because of that country's 1937 campaign in China, and could push diplomatic efforts to bring about a workable understanding with Nazi Germany. But, also, he was a firm supporter of Britain's fabulous rearmament program, a plan which visioned expenditures totaling $7,500,000,000, and he could rely upon that program to show that he would not be bullied or bluffed.

Shortly after he became prime minister rumbles from across the Rhine heralded the hour when Adolf Hitler might demand the return of Germany's pre-[illegible] onies. In October, 1938, [illegible] berlain, in his latest [illegible] clared:

Armistice Day Finds U. S. Cemeteries in France Have Come Through a Second War Unharmed

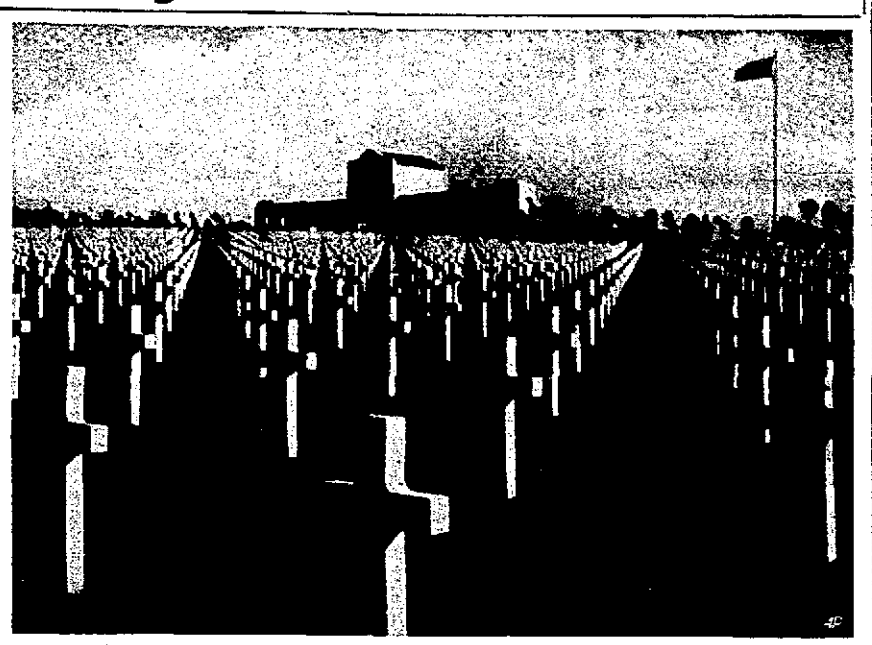
By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—For the first time, Armistice day finds the 30,000 men who gave their lives in the World war resting in soil occupied by the enemy they fought to repulse.

Of the eight American military cemeteries overseas, six are in occupied France and one in Belgium. Only in the little Brookwood cemetery, 25 miles from London where there are just 468 graves, are the men buried in alien soil held by countrymen of the soldiers with whom they fought shoulder to shoulder to drive the Germans out of France.

The cemeteries, as well as the many monuments and memorials that mark the American battlefields of the World war are, however, still managed by the American Battle Monuments commission. In charge of each is an American superintendent under direct supervision of the commission's Paris office.

Except for the difficulty of the Paris office in making its regular inspection tours and the fact that there are no visitors to these hallowed spots which have been the destination or on the itinery of so many American tourists, the cemeteries would hardly know that another war had swept over them.



Burial place of 14,231 Americans near Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, France.

Only Two Damaged

James E. Mangum, secretary of the commission, says that all but two of the cemeteries and all of the monuments escaped damage. In the case of the cemeteries, the damage was so slight that it was easily repaired. Miraculously enough, in neither case was even one grave disturbed, although all of the burial grounds were in the path of the Nazi tide which rolled across Belgium and on this time to Paris and beyond. Nor has there been any report of damage at Brookwood, although bombs have fallen in the vicinity.

In the Aisne-Marne cemetery near Belleau wood, a bomb burst near the chapel and slightly damaged the white marble structure. And in the Meuse-Argonne cemetery at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, a bomb burst just inside the grounds, leaving a gaping crater, but doing no other damage.

Although there has been no tourist travel, one of the important factors in the activity of the commission, work of the office here was almost doubled when the Nazi blitzkrieg got under way and the cemeteries fell into German hands. Scores of mothers, wives and other relatives wrote to know if the cemeteries were damaged.

Has 14,231 Graves

Of all the overseas cemeteries, the Meuse-Argonne is the largest. It has 14,231 graves and nearly all of those men buried there died in the great Meuse-Argonne offensive. Beautifully landscaped inside a mile-and-a-half wall, the cemetery rises on a gentle slope to the large modern-Romanesque marble chapel that stretches its wings over what once was the great Hindenburg Line.

The Oise-Aisne cemetery near Fere-en-Tardenois is the second largest, with a few more than 6,000 graves. About 14 miles away are Chateau-Thierry and Soissons. The St. Mihiel cemetery is near Thiacourt and less than an hour's drive from Nancy, Verdun and Metz. It has more than 4,000 graves. The Aisne-Marne cemetery has 2,228 graves and its imposing chapel rises against the hill that is covered with the massed foliage of Belleau wood. The Somme cemetery, between St. Quentin and Cambrai, is the resting place of nearly all those Americans who were killed serving with the British armies.

Smallest In Belgium

The Suresnes cemetery is on the slopes of Mont Valerien, just five miles out of Paris. Smallest of all the overseas cemeteries is the Flanders Field cemetery, half way between Brussels and Ypres. It has only 368 graves, in which are buried men who lost their lives during American fighting in Belgium.

Although thoughts of the "Unknown Soldier" always bring to mind the "Unknown" who is buried in Arlington, there are 1,643 "unknown soldiers" in the American cemeteries of Europe, buried in unidentified graves with only this marker: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

OHIO JOBS REPORTED BY SECURITY BOARD

Employment Service Places 17,195 in September.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — The social security board reported today that public employment services in Ohio placed 17,195 workers in private jobs last September an increase of 21.7 per cent over the previous month.

Throughout the nation such agencies found jobs in private industry for 305,000 workers in September, the report said, an increase of 8.9 per cent over the previous month.

"Seasonal increases in employment and, to some extent, expanding activity in defense and related industries contributed to the higher number of placements," the board added.

In addition to the private placements, the agencies established a new record of 278,000 "supplemental placements" in September, mostly agricultural, reflecting the peak demand for workers in harvesting operations. Supplemental placements are those in which the unemployment - office performs some but not all of the steps necessary to bring the worker and employer together.

In Ohio there were 579 during September. As employment increased to an estimated 500,000 during September, the number of men and women seeking jobs through public agencies declined 5.7 per cent throughout the country, to 4,900,000. In Ohio they dropped 3.3 per cent to 363,428.

The number of workers receiving unemployment insurance benefits likewise declined, the report continued, the drop amounting to 29 per cent. Total September payments were $36,600,000, the lowest since December, 1939. In Ohio such payments totaled $1,503,015 during September, a decrease of 28.8 per cent from the previous month.

When the Guns Fall Silent

GUNS and bombs mock the timeless sleep of the World war dead on this Armistice day. They did what they could to win security for mankind, and it was not enough.

Today, their sons are dying for the same cause, dying as bravely as they did. The sons, too, hope to win security for mankind in a shambles so vast they scarcely can comprehend its magnitude.

One day, perhaps soon, perhaps not for a long time, there will be another armistice when the guns fall silent again and men lift their tired eyes to Heaven to seek peace. There will be, then, new cemeteries, new monuments to heroes, a new resolve that such things shall not happen again.

Nations and their peoples will be exhausted. They will be shamefully aware, as they were 22 years ago, that somehow they were misled into believing they could attain security by inflicting insecurity. Mixed with their hope for the future will be bitterness about the past—bitterness and a thirst for revenge.

Perhaps they will remember, or perhaps the very wise among them will not let them forget, that the second great war became inevitable the instant the settlement of the first war was arranged at Versailles. Perhaps they will do better the next time by devoting as much energy to keeping peace when they have it in their hands as they used to regain it when false leaders struck it from their grasp. Perhaps.....

There is little else to hope for on Armistice day 1940.

Men Will Build Better Bridges

NO LIVES were lost when the Narrows bridge over Puget Sound broke up in a brisk wind. Engineers had known for a long time the bridge was unsafe; they even knew what was wrong with it, but hadn't done anything.

Despite all the bridges that have been built—and haven't fallen—it still was possible to make a bad mistake on the newest bridge. If there are bridge designers with red ears in consequence, their embarrassment will be viewed with charity. They can build a better bridge next time. Their intentions were good the first time.

Lately, there has been created an impression that everything planned out by master minds must necessarily proceed on schedule today, tomorrow and forevermore, Amen. It's an unhealthy thing to believe. It's not good to forget that slips 'twixt cup and lip haven't been repealed.

A bridge will fall occasionally. There will be an accident to a train or plane. A Hitler will find himself thwarted by 20 miles of open water. A pitifully weak Greek army will hold a stronger army at bay and humiliate it in the eyes of the world. There is no human plan, good or bad, which isn't subject to a little modification by forces bigger than man. It may topple a bridge or a dictator, with fine impartiality.

Pins on a War Map

IN GREECE, the seasoned and highly mechanized troops assigned by Premier Mussolini to the task of making the Greek peninsula safe for the Axis drive on Britain are falling far short of a blitzkrieg. While the odds favor their ultimate success, it looks like one of those military adventures where the game isn't worth the candle.

In China, the superior military forces of Japan, having floundered intermittently and always expensively in that east land for almost a decade, and reported being withdrawn to coastal cities, where they will try to blockade the nation they are supposed to have conquered.

In Europe, with winter settling down, Hitler is confronted with a problem of feeding millions of conquered people, maintaining a vast army in siege array against Great Britain, with slight prospect of striking a decisive blow, and explaining to a nation war-weary before war started why British Prime Minister Churchill is talking about a war which may last at least four more years.

As winter settles down it's a bleak outlook for the Big Three of Belligerency. In fact, they all must touch their visored caps to Russia, the only country which was able to finish what it started, even if it did have to pick out a victim that didn't have a chance.

Luck of the Irish

PUZZLEMENT of Irish-Americans over an attitude toward Great Britain which accomodates sympathy and resentment at the same time isn't helped any by Eire's reaction to Prime Minister Churchill's complaint that Irish ports are closed to British ships.

Prime Minister Eamonn de Valera retorts that as long as Ireland remains neutral no port will be opened or leased to Britain "under any conditions whatsoever." The question raised, but not answered, in this firm declaration concerns Ireland's own safety. How long would the freedom Irishmen love so well be secure if England were to lose the war? What would happen to Irish neutrality if British sea power and air power were routed?

The luck of the Irish is proverbial, but there must be many Irishmen, and not all of them outside Ireland, who are wondering if Free State Irish aren't pushing it a little.

News Behind the News

Split in C. I. O. Regarded Likely When Election Comes Up at Convention.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — Turbulence within John Lewis' C.I.O. is beginning to boil.

Uncle John has let all his boys know he is not going to retire, in response to some of their recently shouted invitations. He is just going to step out backwards by failing to stand for reelection at the impending national convention—but the question is how far.

The Lewis wing has been attempting to promote election of his close companion, Phillip Murray, but the Sidney Hillman crowd won't stand for it.

Paul Mallon

A split seems likely, in which a substantial bulk of C.I.O. back into the A.F. of L., leaving the Lewis faction holding a slightly smaller bag than usual.

Administration scouts see an impossibility of complete labor peace in the situation, but every prospect of a 75 per cent peace which, of course, would be extremely satisfactory to A.F. of L. and the government.

The position of Lewis is not as weak as you might suppose. His hold on the leadership of the United Mine Workers is so strong as to be virtually incontestable. This organization is the main source of C.I.O. financial revenue. Some figures indicate U.M.W. has contributed $360,000 a year in special per capita assessments. It is unlikely Lewis would care to continue to finance a C.I.O. organization he could not control. So if his friend Murray is not elected at Atlantic City, a rather full reorganization of the union labor movement can be looked for as a natural sequence.

Ickes on the Press

First disturbing sign that was raised within the government to startle observers here after the election was the announced suggestion of Interior Secretary Ickes that the "press should be free like the radio."

Implications that could be drawn from this statement were spectacular. The radio operates under the thumb of government licenses. If that is what Mr. Ickes considers freedom, some of his hearers went away from his press conference with the fear he might have had a loose thought about government licensing of newspapers—renewable every six months to a year as in the case of radio—to see that they behave in an acceptable manner.

But another thing Mr. Ickes said at the same time indicated he favors a democratic method rather than a fascistic licensing system. He complained that the press was more than 60 per cent for Willkie in the election, whereas the voters were only 45 per cent plus for Willkie. He seemed to favor proportional representation of the electorate in the press.

If Mr. Ickes intends to proceed against the press on that line, he will naturally first be required to afford proportional representation in the government and in the President's cabinet for the 23,000,000 people who voted against Mr. Roosevelt. He cannot consistently proceed to provide representation for all the people only in the press and not in his own government, especially as the government is primarily constituted to represent the whole people as they vote in elections.

The conflicting methods of fascism and democracy which Mr. Ickes mentioned probably mean only that he does not know exactly what he means or wants. Only thing certain is that he does not intend to abandon his favorite whipping boy, the press.

Debt Limit

There is every evidence that the treasury hurried to proclaim a prospective increase of the debt limit. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau spoke without text. His first accounts were so confusing, in a minor way, that the first news dispatches were erroneous in some particulars (as between bonds, bills and notes) and had to be corrected later.

The buoyant effect upon the stock market, however, seems to have gone a little higher than anticipated.

As one good treasury friend put it next day: "Perhaps we should have announced for an increase of the debt to $100,000,000,000 before the shine of the election wears off."

His remark was only fractionally facetious. The increase to $80,000,000,000 or $85,000,000,000 is obviously only the first step to meet what the rearmament program will require.

Political Prophets

1940 Crop No Better, No Worse Than Usual.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL, who reached some conclusions about the foibles of mankind which are as sound today as they were in his lifetime, gave this tart advice about prophecy: "Don't never prophesy—unless ye know."

There was no more prophesying in the campaign of 1940 than is customary in presidential election years, nor was it any different from the ordinary run of political soothsaying. But just to show how dangerous prophecy without certain knowledge of the outcome can be—and how embarrassing it may become afterward—here are some samples:

Emil Hurja, who prophesied the Roosevelt landslide of 1936, raised the hopes of Willkie supporters by saying, "The Willkie prairie fire is sweeping across the country from the Pacific to the Atlantic" — which would have stood up all right if Mr. Hurja hadn't gone on to predict 29 states and 353 electoral votes for Willkie, 19 states and 178 electoral votes for Roosevelt.

Paul V. McNutt, who might have been No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket if Henry Wallace hadn't been preferred by No. 1 man, saw things clearly as far back as last May. Said McNutt: "The Republicans will not carry even Maine and Vermont."

Joseph W. Martin Jr., Republican national chairman, who may have been trying to spur party enthusiasm but nevertheless spoke as a prophet, peered into the crystal ball and saw Willkie and McNary receiving a minimum of 324 electoral votes and the Republicans capturing 60 additional seats in the house of representatives.

HIS rival in the other camp, National Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx, shaded his eyes and told his countrymen on Oct. 24: "You can start from New York and go clear around the rim of the nation and give every single state to Roosevelt as far, at least, as Montana." On his peripheral sweep, Mr. Flynn failed to see Maine and North Dakota going the wrong way.

A newcomer to political prophecy, bearing a distinguished name, thought he could see Mr. Roosevelt carrying all 48 states. "It is possible, even probable," said Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. on Oct. 24.

Herbert Hoover belied the caution of his own nature on June 29 by snapping his fingers and saying, "I have no doubt Willkie will be elected just like that!"

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, thought he saw Willkie winning by a knockout.

Maury Maverick, mayor of San Antonio, former congressman, an ardent New Dealer, peered through the clear air of Texas last September and concluded every state in the union was going "to vote for the third term in November."

William Allen White, who put Emporia, Kan., on the map, attributed his gift of prophecy to star-gazing. On Aug. 1, he said: "It is in the stars for Willkie to win. The drift is obvious." The drift was obvious on Nov. 5 but the stars let Editor White down.

CARL SNYDER, former president of American Statistical association, didn't confine himself to generalities. Last June 20 he saw Wisconsin going Republican by 60 per cent; Massachusetts, Michigan and Pennsylvania by 59 per cent; New Jersey by 58 per cent, Ohio by 57 per cent, Indiana by 56 per cent; New York by 55 per cent.

Don't imagine, however, that prophecy has hanged itself in its own rope. There will be another national election in 1944. There will be local and state elections in 1942. And in every one of them the attentive voter will know exactly how things are going if he listens to the right prophet. That will be the prophet who makes the best guess, like Mr. Hurja in 1936—not Mr. Hurja in 1940.

A nationwide celebration was held in Germany in honor of the seven killed in the bombing of a beer garden at Buergerbraeu Hall in Munich. Rudolf Hess was the principal speaker of the day. He declared that Providence had protected Adolph Hitler and was with him in his fight for right.

President Roosevelt's Armistice Day message said in part that "we work for peace, we pray for peace and we arm for peace."

There was little activity along the Western Front, however, preparation of defenses of the Netherlands and Belgium was noted by observers.

Call Sounded for Shelving of Partisan Differences; Unified U. S. Action Needed.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

I REGRET that every newspaper in the United States did not publish in full, on its front pages, the speeches made at Carnegie Hall on the night after the election in a rally to bury hatchets and start out again together.

Raymond Gram Swing, who possesses one of the finest political minds and one of the most magnanimous and courageous spirits in this country, is chairman of the Council for Democracy, which called the meeting, and Mr. Swing's speech belongs among the masterpieces of American public addresses in time of peril.

Dorothy Thompson

Stephen Vincent Benet's beautiful speech, as uttered by Raymond Massey, ought to go into school text books.

Honesty, magnanimity, cooperation, a high Americanism, a total lack of rancor, marked every speech, from that of Mr. George M. Harrison, representing the railroad Brotherhoods, to that of Mr. Howard Coonley representing the National Association of Manufacturers. The spirit of Republicanism that has nothing to fear from the President, and from which the President has nothing to fear, breathed through the addresses of Newbold Morris and of Mr. Lanron. The spirit of democracy from which the Republicans have nothing to fear was expressed in the speech of Mr. Robert Jackson.

If that spirit prevails we shall conquer our own animosities and, having conquered them, be unconquerable.

Landon's Views

Mr. Landon, once governor of Kansas, a state that this year went Republican, and, in 1936 candidate for the presidency of the United States, spoke, I am convinced, for a majority of Republicans when he said, over the radio from Topeka:

"As soon as the election is over, Republicans and Democrats will rally in the nation's interests to the support of the President of the United States. This vital and dominant attitude in American political life will not be changed by the bitterness of this campaign. Whoever is elected will be my President for the next four years . . . . A successful defense program requires the utmost cooperation from all of us. Nothing could be more demoralizing within a nation than a constant campaign of hate. . . . . We should permit a wide range of disagreement as to policy, should throttle down all demagogic appeal to emotions, and hold steadfastly to a rational exchange of ideas. . . . There is in the world tonight the unity of the machine gun. And then, there is the inspiring unity of a free people, behind a leader who is honest, and truthful, and frank as to the toil and hardships ahead. . . . The world must see us at our work, and know that in the heat of the campaign we toss epithets about, but grin and go back to work when the campaign is over, citizens all of a great nation."

He who cannot say Amen to that is no friend of this democracy and of this republic.

President's Speech

The President, in his Cleveland speech, the last speech of his campaign said, this:

"The progress of our country, as well as the defense of our country, requires national unity. We need the cooperation of every single American — our workers, the great organizers and technicians in our factories, our farmers, our professional men and women, our workers in industry, our youth—all the men, all the women who love America just a little bit more than they love themselves."

Is there any one who does not respond to that? Should we not take the President at his word? I do the President the honor to believe that he meant it. I do him the honor to believe that this passion for America which fills your heart and mine, fills his to certainly no lesser degree. I do him the honor to believe that his intelligence tells him that we cannot do what we positively must do in order to survive, without all the brains, and all the hands, and all the emotional power of affectionate fidelity resident in this great society.

At the extreme right and at the extreme left are Catilines. Yes, they are there. They have no love for this democracy, no faith in this democracy, and they plot its ruin. If we, the vast center, of which they are merely a periphery, stand together, they will perish of inanition. They can only draw strength from an unhealed cleavage. But if the cleavage is not healed, they will draw great strength, for they have the consequentiality of fanaticism. They, who know what they are about, which is the task of destruction, will find it easy if the building they would wreck is cracked across.

Old Dogs Useful

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN—Twenty-five-year-old hot dogs saved the day at a silver-wedding celebration here.

After all the guests had taken their seats at the dinner, the husband appeared with a large can. He opened it and dished out frankfurters, a great delicacy in these days of meat rationing. Then he disclosed they were canned a quarter century ago.

The "dogs" were put up shortly after the couple's marriage when the bride was anxious to prove she knew a trick or two about housekeeping.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Nov. 11, 1930.

"We must wage peace continuously—with the same energy as they waged war," President Hoover said in his Armistice Day message.

Paul L. Insley, 23, Ohio State university and son of Leonard Insley, Worthington newspaper publisher who was a former Marion resident, was killed in an automobile accident at Worthington.

The Columbus, Marion and Bucyrus electric railway ceased operation following sale of the property by the receiver to a Marion junk firm. Later it was bought by the C., D. & M. Electric Railway company and operations were resumed.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Irvin of North Seffner avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Nov. 11, 1920.

Armistice Day was celebrated in the United States, Great Britain, France and many smaller nations.

In Marion the celebration included a parade followed by a program on the Harding front porch in which Gen. Edward Vollrath of Bucyrus and Fred E. Guthery of Marion spoke. Major George T. Geran presided and introduced the speakers.

At Brownsville, Texas, the Armistice Day address was given by President-elect Harding, his first formal address since his election. A vast crowd from all parts of Texas and other points in the south was present. Mr. Harding interpreted America's participation in the war as a defense of national rights which revealed for the first time the nation's soul and united all sections and classes.

The body of Corporal Harland C. Wise, who was killed in a motorcycle accident in France on Feb. 22, 1918, arrived in Marion and was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wise of Bartram avenue. Corporal Wise served with the 493rd Aero squadron.

SAYS WE STILL LIVE IN "ERA OF 1776"

Toward its close, however, the ... appearance of tiny movements in ... tiny places, led by tiny people ... forecast the next vast step forward—the era of 1776—the age in which, thank God, we still live.

Those beginners originated, in a true sense in the Old World—among the philosophers, among the seekers of many kinds of freedom forbidden by those who governed.

Those beginnings found their freest development in the colonies that were organized along the seaboard of North America. There, by the processes of trial and error, democracy as it has since been accepted in so many lands, had its birth and its training.

There came into being the first far-flung government in all the world whose cardinal principle was democracy—the United States of America.

We must accept that as fact because, truly and fundamentally, it was a new order—nothing like it had ever been seen before. We must accept it because the new order spread into almost every part of the civilized world.

It spread in many forms—and over the next century almost all peoples had acquired some form of popular expression of opinion, some form of election, of franchise, of the right to be heard. The Americas and the British Isles led the world in spreading the gospel of democracy among peoples great and small.

And the world as a whole felt with much right that it had discarded feudalism, conquest and dictatorship.

CITES 1914 ATTEMPT TO "DESTROY NEW ORDER"

People felt that way until 1914, when a definite effort was made in a part of the world to destroy this existing "new order of the ages,"—to destroy it after its relatively short trial, and to substitute for it the doctrine that might makes right. The attempt failed 22 years ago today.

You and I who served in the period of the World war have faced in later years unpatriotic efforts by some of our own countrymen to make us believe that the sacrifices made by our nation were wholly in vain.

A hundred years from now on, historians will brand such efforts as puny and false. A hundred years from now, historians will say rightly that the World war preserved the new order of the ages for at least a whole generation—a full 20 years—and that if the Axis of 1918 had been successful in military victory over the associated nations, resistance on behalf of democracy in 1940 would have been wholly impossible.

America, therefore, is proud of its share in maintaining the era of democracy in that war in which we took part. America is proud of you who served—and ever will be proud.

I, for one, do not believe that the era of democracy in human affairs can or will be snuffed out in our lifetime. I, for one, do not believe that mere force will be successful in sterilizing the seeds which had taken such a firm root as a harbinger of better lives for mankind. I, for one, do not believe that the world will revert either to a modern form of ancient slavery or to controls vested in modern feudalism or modern emperors or modern dictators or modern oligarchs in these days. The very people under their iron heels will, themselves rebel.

DECLARES WE INTEND TO CONTINUE IN NEW ORDER

What are a few months or even a few years in the lifetime of any of us? We, alive today, live and think in terms of our grandparents, and our own parents, and ourselves, and our children — yes, and our grandchildren. We, alive today—not in the existing democracies alone but also among the populations of the smaller nations already overrun, are thinking in the larger terms of the maintenance of the new order to which we have been accustomed and in which we intend to continue.

We recognize certain facts of 1940 which did not exist in 1918 —a need for the elimination of aggressive armaments—a need for the breaking down of barriers in a more closely knitted world—a need for restoring honor in the written and spoken word. We recognize that the processes of democracies must be greatly improved in order that we may attain those purposes.

But over and above the present, we recognized and salute the eternal verities that lie with us in the future of mankind.

You, the men of 1917 and 1918, helped to preserve those truths of democracy for our generation.

We still unite, we still arrive mightily to preserve intact that new order of the ages founded by the fathers of America.

KNOX SAYS U. S. DEEDS, NOT WORDS, WILL COUNT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 11—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, calling for national unity, said here today that deeds instead of words would be the answer of the United States to the "menace" of totalitarian powers.

ARMISTICE

...posed to war. However, we fully ... that eternal vigilance and ... adequate preparedness on land, ... and in the air, is the price ... this nation must pay if we ... to remain at peace."

With his words, "let us pause ... reverence of the memory of ... departed comrades," the party ... east in 30 seconds of silent ... to the war dead. Lewis ... Sherman, post chaplain, ... offered a prayer and other American ... Legion officials were introduced ... and spoke briefly.

"We look back with all thankfulness to that Armistice day which ended the World war and remember how gladly men stood erect in the sun once more," R. A. Todd, post commander, recounted. "War produces the greatest extremes in human life. It brings men to sanity; yet it drives them mad. It reveals them magnificent in sacrifice and revolting in brutality. It is a sacrament and a shambles. There was a half truth in that doctrine of the prophets of war, for war does breed splendid and essential virtues.

Cost Is Too Great

"But it breeds them at too great a cost. Peace must breed in us the same virtues without that cost."

Colonel T. E. Andrews, past Post commander, carried on the theme brought out by Commander Todd and answered with, "the spirit of self-sacrifice can be cultivated in peace as well as in war.

"The greatest glory of war is the almost incredible spirit of devotion it engenders. Men offer their lives, risk their lives and throw away their lives with magnificent abandon. Yet in warfare, greed and brutality become epidemic. And too often they persist in the peace that follows.

"It is for us to rear new standards of success. We must pay public honor where public honor is due. We must not uphold the mere manipualtion of a market, or a mere scrambler after profit, or power, or position. Rather let us honor the heroes of science who alleviate human suffering and carry on the standards of civilization.

"Let us honor the men who carry into the ordinary affairs of life a noble idealism and a sincere capacity for self-devotion."

Seeks Civil Courage

W. H. Willis, past post commander, in the closing talk carried the theme of the answer still farther. "The courage of war," he said, "left all the world at once proud and humble, at once shamed and inspired. It is for us to convert this martial courage into civil courage. We must honor the courage of every day, the value of clean, uncompromising lives lived in common honor and devotion.

"Adventure need not disappear with war. There are always quests to challenge. The new romance will be turning of the slums of the world into a paradise. It is for us then to learn the valor that endures in peace as well as war."

An American Legion squad, under the direction of Captain Eugene Hill, fired a salute to the dead. Taps was sounded by Leonard Malott, a member of the Harding High school band. At the close of the ceremonies the Legionnaires reformed and marched to the Dugout where "open house" was being observed throughout the day and evening.

Ohio Joins Nation in Armistice Tribute

By The Associated Press

Ohio joined the nation today in ceremonial observance of the 22-year-old World war armistice.

Speeches and parades throughout the state marked the holiday despite forecasts of occasional rain.

Outstanding speakers included Gov. John W. Bricker at Denison university, U. S. Sen.-Elect Harold H. Burton at Cleveland, Grove Patterson, Toledo editor, at Western Reserve university, and Adj.-Gen. Gilson D. Light at Dayton.

In Columbus, Charles Mack unnumbered his bugle to sound taps from the statehouse steps at 11 a. m., the hour when World war hostilities ceased.

Similar tribute was paid in other towns to the 6,800 Ohioans who died in uniform during the conflict.

Parades generally lacked their usual pomp because 10,000 Ohio National Guardsmen who customarily participated were in Camp Shelby, Miss., and other camps for defense training.

Toledo dedicated a row of trees as a living memorial to its world war dead while at Youngstown a riverside park honored those who failed to return.

Most federal, state and city offices were closed, along with schools and many business establishments.

U. S. Only 1918 Ally at Peace Today

The United States paused momentarily in a mighty defense effort today to commemorate the eleventh day of the eleventh month 22 years ago which men once heralded peace in our time.

Of the three major allies fighting shoulder to shoulder when the armistice was signed Nov. 11, 1918 this country alone was at peace and unscourged by war as it rendered reverential homage to the unknown soldier who personifies its World war dead.

In London embattled Britain will forego her annual observance and make the day one of rededication—to the memory both of those who fell in the long years betwee n1914 and 1918, and of those who have died in the present struggle.

Paris is in the hands of a conquering army and the nation has a new roster of dead to add to the long list of the former war.

The coming of new Armistice day also served to bring forth demands that the country avoid any future conflict.

The American Youth Congress announced meetings of "more than 3,000 youth organizations" for the purpose of combatting "war-like acts which bring America closer to war and dictatorship."

The Citizens Committee against War said it questioned "the long steps which our country has taken toward war." and declared in a statement that it deplored "the vast strides toward Fascism in this country which the conscription act and the super-armaments program have led to."

VOTE RECOUNT IN MORROW CO. ASKED

Five Electors Want Check on Commissioner Race.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Nov. 11—A recount of the vote cast last week for Morrow county commissioners was asked in a petition filed with the Morrow county board of elections Saturday.

The recount was not asked by the defeated Republican incumbents, A. A. Brollier and G. W. Turner, but by a group of five electors. G. J. Young, Don B. White, Harold Johnstone, Leon McCarty, and Judge W. P. Vaughan.

It was reported that the Morrow county Republican executive committee had arranged to ask for the recount and were guaranteeing all costs after learning that Brollier and Turner had no intention of asking for a recount.

The Republican committee members stated they had reason to believe that numerous errors were made in the commissioner vote count but that they were not in any way questioning the honesty of any of the elections officials.

The unofficial count as reported by Roy Miller, clerk of the board, immediately after the election showed M. C. Griffin and Albert W. Klingel, the Democratic candidates, elected with Griffin leading Klingel by 15 votes, Brollier third, 39 behind Klingel, and Turner fourth, 92 behind Brollier.

They announced their engagement and approaching marriage last night after arriving from Washington by plane.

Mrs. Mason, socially prominent in Washington, obtained a divorce in Tampa several weeks ago from George Grant Mason, a member of the civil aeronautics board.

GANG SLAYING SUSPECTED IN CLEVELANDER'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., Nov. 11—Amid a maze of odd puzzle pieces which did not seem to fit, officers sought today a "friend" of John J. Sivillo, 26, of Cleveland, to help put together the picture of his apparent gang-killing.

Sivillo told his family he had an appointment with this "friend" at 7 p. m. Friday. Sivillo's bullet-riddled body was found Saturday in his automobile on route 90 near the Youngstown-Warren airport.

Both Warren and Cleveland authorities worked on the theory that Sivillo was "rubbed out" by gangsters.

BILLION MORE IN TAX REVENUES STUDIED

New Levies on Soft Drinks, Securities Are Hinted.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Treasury officials indicated today they were seeking about $1,000,000,000 of additional tax revenues from new levies on such items as soft drinks and securities and increased levies on individual income and corporate excess profits.

They said that although Secretary Morgenthau already had committed the administration to seek more revenue from the next congress, no definite tax plan had yet been agreed upon. Congressional leaders probably will be consulted before any decisions are made.

While such conferences are in progress, however, Morgenthau will present his plan for increasing the federal debt limit $15,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 above the present $49,000,000,000 restriction in order to finance the defense program.

Upward revision of the recently-enacted excess profits tax was taken almost for granted by a number of treasury officials. From this revision alone, they hinted, the revenue possibilities run as high as $500,000,000, but probably less.

The corporate excess profits tax, together with the increased corporate income tax enacted with it a few weeks ago, were said by some to necessitate a similar increase in individual income tax rates which might bring in upwards of $100,000,000 more taxes.

Although congress has been manifestly reluctant on the subject, Morgenthau and the administration have indicated their intention of seeking legislation taxing the income from all future issues of governmental securities.

MOLOTOFF GOING TO BERLIN CONFERENCE

Parley May Decide Joint Action Against Turkey.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 11—Soviet Russia's premier-foreign commissar, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, sped toward Berlin today for discussions which some sections of the German press indicated might center on the problem of British-guaranteed Turkey, guardian of the Dardanelles.

Informed sources said Molotoff was expected to reach Berlin sometime tomorrow forenoon. Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop will accompany the Soviet entourage on the main part of their train ride through the eastern reich to the capital, these sources added.

Paper States Purpose

The National Zeitung stated boldly last night, a short time after Molotoff left Moscow by rail amid considerable ceremony, that the Turkish question lay within the scope of conference, scheduled to open early this week, perhaps tomorrow.

Because of the controlled nature of the German press this assertion took on the aspects of an authoritative declaration of what was to come up in the discussions. Dienst Aus Deutschand commented that Molotoff's visit, made on Germany's invitation, indicated that the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance "had found a welcome reception" in Moscow.

(From Rome came word that Italy's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, might attend the Berlin conference, although there was no mention of this in Berlin or Moscow.)

All press comments on the German-Russian discussions, however, were tempered with the caution that nothing too revolutionary should be expected.

It was considered certain here that Adolf Hitler would receive the Russian premier—making his first trip outside the Soviet union —before Molotoff begins his discussions with von Ribbentrop. Discussions between the two last year resulted in the non-aggression pact between Germany and Russia just before the outbreak of the war.

SAY ENGLAND'S OFFENSIVE SET

England Believed Ready for Fierce Blow at Axis To Save Egypt.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 11—An informed British source declared today that Britain would strike at the Axis forces in the Near East at the earliest possible moment.

This authority said that reinforcements must be sent swiftly to the Near East in preparation for "a fierce and protracted struggle" and that Egypt must be held "at all costs" because of its vital strategical position.

He estimated Italian strength in Libya, pointed toward Egypt and the Suez canal, at 250,000 troops, plus a group of German technicians and tactical experts.

Commenting on the Near Eastern campaign, experts declared that Britain's position in the western desert was "immensely improved" with "better" armaments and defenses.

Nazis Pour Waves of Bombs on London

By The Associated Press

In the battle of Britain, waves of German bombers, with as many as 100 in a single formation, raced across the channel to attack London again and again after a tempestuous night assault in which the Germans said they dropped 460,000 pounds of bombs on London alone.

RAF Spitfires and Hurricane fighters roared into battle against the German raiders overhead while thousands of Londoners stood in silence, with bared heads, to commemorate the 22nd anniversary of the 1914-18 "war to end wars."

Rooftop observers estimated that German night bombers—probably retaliating for the British raid on Munich Friday while Adolf Hitler was there to celebrate the anniversary on the start of his rise to power 17 years ago—droned over London for five hours at a one-a-minute clip.

"Greater Than Usual"

The British official comment said merely that the Nazi raiding activity was "somewhat greater than on the previous night."

RAF warplanes struck deep into Germany in "extensive" night forays, it was announced, attacking Mannheim, Essen, Gelsenkirchen and Danzig. It was the first British raid on Danzig, former so-called "free city" which played a major role in touching off the whole European war.

Nazi quarters said RAF raiders also attempted to bomb Berlin, but were "forced to turn about."

A British Broadcasting Corp. report said that "free French" forces under Gen. Charles De Gaulle had landed at Libreville, French equatorial Africa, and had taken over French Gabon to cut a west-to-east route to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The French government at Vichy said a "full-fledged war" was going on between De Gaulle's forces and defending troops loyal to the regime of Marshal Philippe Petain.

Vice Premier Laval said after a conference with Reichsmarshal Goering of Germany there would be no further peace negotiations with Germany until the war ended.

Italy acknowledge RAF raids yesterday on southern Italy especially in the Naples area, but said damage was negligible.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Ashley Man, 102, and Year Old Relative Honor Guests.

The Ashley American Legion members went to the home in a body and presented the veteran with a basket of bronze chrysanthemums. The Legion auxiliary sent a basket of pink and white mums.

TWO MURDERED IN OHIO DEFENSE PLANT

Men Mysteriously Slain in Springfield Motor Factory.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 11—Nine hours' questioning of two men with police records failed today to pierce a mystery veiling the death of two workmen, beaten to death in a plant making engines for national defense.

The pair, recently convicted of stealing metal from industrial concerns, was released after Chief of Detectives Walter Sweet failed to connect them with the crimes at the National Supply Co. factory.

Their release left an 18-inch blood-stained iron bar as the only tangible clue. Police Chief George Abele said the bar undoubtedly was used to crush the victims' skulls, but he still was baffled for a reason.

The officer asserted that sabotage had not been eliminated as a possible motive.

The iron bar was picked up today near the lathe of machinist Jesse Ray, 41, who was discovered dying from blows on the head about 5:30 a. m., Sunday. The body of watchman Fred Prior, 45, was found outside the company's main building about the same time.

Admitting he was up "against a blank wall," Abele said burglary, robbery or a personal grudge were not being overlooked as possible motives. He gave this account of the slayings:

Prior's failure to check a watchman's signal station caused some of the half dozen employes then on duty to investigate. They found him dead from three blows on the head.

Further investigation disclosed Ray unconscious from a crushed skull. He had been knocked from a seat beside the machine he was attending and died enroute to a hospital.

"in ruins," with fierce fires raging in refinery plants, including those of Romana-Americana, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

The United States legation said a hasty check disclosed no Americans among the casualties of the quake thus far.

Ploesti, an important oil center nearer the capital, also was hard hit, while hundreds of roofs and large buildings collapsed in Brasov, historic German Transylvanian city, killing some and injuring a great many.

Nearly all theaters and public buildings were reported leveled in the hard-hit cities of Galati and Focsani, and scores of bodies were said to have been located already in Galati, a Rumanian submarine base.

The entire center of Focsani was reported wiped out and one of the towns destroyed completely was Panciu, not far from Focsani.

Nearly 100 prisoners in the penitentiary at Doetana died when the prison was leveled.

Palace Damaged

Panic-stricken residents of the capital were afraid to go home for fear further shocks would shake down tottering buildings. Many sought safety in fields and woods and invalids spent the night in the city's parks, miserable under a drizzling rain.

The royal palace suffered some damage, but King Mihai and Queen Mother Helen were outside the quake area, at the summer palace in Sinaia. The United States legation also suffered some damage but U. S. Minister Franklin M. Gunther was out of the danger zone.

Traveled Road of Adventure

The roads of adventure entered Key Pittman from his native state, Mississippi, and eventually led him to the United States senate and a high place in the councils of the Democratic party.

They were long and devious roads and not infrequently dangerous. Sometimes he blazed new trails, but he found much pleasure in traveling them and rarely did they fail to lead him to higher opportunities in richer fields.

Desire for the hunt carried him to the Northwest in the early nineties. The thirst for adventure lingered him away from a good law practice at Seattle, Wash., and put him in the mad rush of gold seekers that streamed to Alaska with the discovery of the precious metal in the Klondike.

After four years in the northwest territory, Senator Pittman returned to the United States to try his luck in the new silver mines at Tonopah, Nev. There his success as a miner and lawyer and his entry into politics combined to influence him to make the place his permanent home.

Ran In 1911

In 1911 he became the Democratic candidate for United States Senator from Nevada against George S. Nixon. That was before the popular election of senators. At the suggestion of Pittman the two candidates went before the people under an agreement that the one receiving the smaller number of votes recommend to the legislature the election of the other. Pittman lost. A year later upon the death of Senator Nixon, Pittman again became a candidate. Under a similar arrangement with his opponent he was elected and since then had been regularly returned to the senate.

Senator Pittman was born at Vicksburg, Miss., September 19, 1872, the son William Buckner Pittman and Catherine Key Pittman. He was educated by private tutors and later studied law at the Southwestern Presbyterian University, Clarksville, Tenn., where he was graduated in 1890. On July 7, 1900, he married Minnie June Gates of Eureka, Calif.

On Various Committees

At various times Senator Pittman served on the naval, foreign relations and interstate commerce committees as well as the committee on mines. He sponsored much legislation relating to mining and reclamation projects. Four times he was the Democratic caucus candidate for president pro tempore of the senate.

In the Democratic national convention of 1924 he was secretary of the committee on platform and resolutions and four years later was chairman of that committee.

When he went to Alaska in 1897, Senator Pittman worked two years as a miner and then opened a law office at Nome. He was said to have been the first lawyer to engage in practice in that region. He successfully defended the rights of miners against the encroachments of a mining company. He also took an active part in the organization of a "consent" government, in which he became district attorney.

Favored Council Table

Senator Pittman had an abiding faith in the ability of men to work out their disagreements around the council table. He applied to legislative problems and party disagreements the same principles he employed in solving legal difficulties.

His favorite method was to bring the contending factions together and have them thrash out the controversial question until a common point of disagreement was reached. Then, as a basis upon which to work, he would propose a compromise, which in had been made to meet the return would be modified until it mands of the two factions.

AMERICANIZATION PROGRAM PLANNED

Authority on World Situation To Speak Here.

E. C. Ramsey of Washington, D. C., European newspaper correspondent, will be guest speaker for an Americanization program to be sponsored by Birk-McGinnis Post No. 166, American Legion, at the meeting of the Marion Council Parent-Teacher association Thursday night at Central Junior High school. A short business session at 7:15 will precede the talk scheduled for 7:30.

Mr. Ramsey has spent the greater part of the last 20 years as a news correspondent in European countries and returned only recently from Lisbon. In addition to interviews granted to foreign correspondents by the leaders of nations, he made it a practice of living with an average family in every country he visited and because of this he is able to present not only the prepared views of leaders but to interpret the present world scenes from the standpoint of the average citizen.

He saw service in the World war and his newspaper work ranges from small publications in rural communities to newspapers of the metropolitan area. According to those who have heard him, no more urgent and inspiring speaker on democracy as a way of life appears on the American platform today.

The council will be represented by a float in the Armistice day parade this evening. Plans for this are in charge of Mrs. W. E. Orcutt, Mrs. Thomas D. Bain and Mrs. Inez Bastian.

WOMAN, THREE BOYS ACCUSED OF THEFTS

Arrested as Shoplifters in Business District.

A 36-year-old woman and three young boys were arrested by police Saturday night for alleged shoplifting activities in the uptown business district.

Mrs. Lillie Sweeney of Chamberlain, Athens county, was arraigned on a petit larceny charge after employes of several stores reported her actions were suspicious. Police said they found several small articles, including women's apparel and pictures, which allegedly were taken from counters at the Kresge dime store and the Montgomery Ward & Co. store.

Three boys, aged 10, 12 and 13, all of near Caledonia were arrested on charges of shoplifting a gallon of cider from the Kroger Master grocery at South Main street, nine cartridges from the Montgomery Ward & Co. store and chewing gum from the Gallaher drug store on West Center street. They were picked up when a policeman saw one of the youths carrying the jug of cider. All three were released to their parents to appear in juvenile court tomorrow. The two younger boys are brothers, police said.

DRAFT

who national and local numbers differ. The national numbers merely show the sequence in which a serial number was drawn at Washington Oct. 29.

The local order numbers are obtained by using the national numbers and are actually the ones which determine the order in which a man goes to camp.

There are approximately 6,000 national lottery numbers, but most boards do not have that many registrants and hence must disregard many of the national numbers since they do not apply to them.

For instance, the largest board in Marion county has only about 2,270 names, and thus the same total of serial numbers.

When this board assigned its local order numbers, it went down the national lottery numbers and crossed off all those national numbers which corresponded to serial numbers higher than 2,270.

As a result of this elimination, it stands to reason that the local order numbers will be considerably lower than the national order numbers.

How It Works

Here is an example, using the board with 2,270 registrants:

The first serial number drawn out in the national lottery was 158. Since it was the first it became National Number 1. Since this local board has a No. 158, it also becomes Local Order No. 1.

The second serial number drawn at Washington was 192. It became National No. 2. Since the local board had this number, it also became Local Order No. 2.

The third serial number drawn was 8239. This became National No. 3. However, this local board did not have any registrant as high as 8239 so it disregarded this number.

The next 18 serial numbers drawn at Washington were all higher than 2,270, and the local board had to disregard them also.

The nineteenth serial number drawn at Washington was 105. Since it was the nineteenth, it became National No. 19. However, for this local board it was only Local Order No. 3.

The next several numbers drawn were also too high for the local board.

The forty-first serial number drawn was 188 and it became National No. 41. However, since the local board had again been forced to skip several numbers, 188 was only Local Order No. 4.

And so it went all through the 9,000 numbers.

FARMERS:

DO YOU ALLOW HUNTING ON YOUR FARM?

If you don't, why not let the hunters know about it. A timely Marion Star Want Ad under classification 2 will do the work.

The hunters have become educated to always look under this classification just before the hunting season commences. By doing this they know that there are certain farms that they are not permitted to hunt on.

A Marion Star Want Ad will do the work quicker than any No Hunting sign tacked upon a fence post or tree will do.

The best type of ad to run would be one telling the location of the farm.

Harding Blanks Mt. Vernon, 22-0, Wins Share of Title

Prexies Divide 1940 NCO-Pennant With Shelby and Bucyrus Teams; Set Record for Marion.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION HARDING'S precedent-smashing gridders today are on the pinnacle of the North Central Ohio conference by virtue of a 22-0 victory in the season-ending league game at Mt. Vernon Saturday afternoon.

It's the second consecutive season that the Presidents have wound up atop the NCO ladder, something that has not happened before in the history of Harding High. This season they share the glory with Bucyrus and Shelby, the three-way tie being another item that's new in NCO annals.

Coach Bill Williams' crew performed pretty much as expected in bowling over the fifth-place Yellow Jackets, and running their record to six wins in eight grid meetings with the Knox countians. They got away to a slow start, a pair of fumbles early in the first quarter stopping their initial offensive thrusts.

Picks Up Speed

But once Marion's well-oiled football machine began moving, it rolled over the Jackets, who became more and more helpless as the game progressed. The Presidents piled up 127 yards on their ground attack and got 70 more via an aerial barrage.

Warren Ferguson, veteran ball toter and one of the few backs returning from last year's unbeaten team, scored two touchdowns and Leo Belknap got another. Pete Bascos and Wayne Short each accounted for a point from placement and two more tallies were added to Harding's total when Martin Lewis blocked a punt behind the Mt. Vernon goal line.

Fumble Comes Early

Ferguson returned the opening kick-off 21 yards to the Marion 38, and on the second play Clark recovered a fumble for Mt. Vernon. The Jackets lost two yards on a line attempt, a pass attempt was knocked down and Scarff punted out on Marion's 17. Another fumble, this one recovered by Schlosser, gave the Mounties the ball on Marion's 24. A line try was thrown for a six-yard loss, a pass was incomplete, Scarff fumbled but recovered and with fourth and 23, a bad pass from center sent Scarff scampering back after the ball and he was tackled on the 48, where Marion got possession on downs. Edington quick-kicked 47 yards, Short coving the ball on the Mt. Vernon 13. Kerin's return boot was taken by Ferguson on the 46 and he picked up 16 yards before being brought down. Petty smashed the line for two yards. Robert's first pass attempt was incomplete and the second was intercepted by B. Wright. Kerin punted on first down, Hodges making a fair catch at midfield. The Presidents gained 14 yards in a punt exchange and Hodges, taking the Mt. Vernon kick, ran it 13 yards to the 28-yard marker. A Gilbert-to-Hodges pass was complete for nine yards but line plays were stopped for no gain and Mt. Vernon took the ball on downs. Kerin kicked to Marion's 40. Edington found himself smothered when he went back to pass and he was thrown on the 22, a loss of 18 yards. He kicked to the Marion 43 as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

B. Wright smacked the line for four yards and an offside penalty gave the Mounties five more. Kerin kicked to the Marion 30. Ferguson caught the ball, went to his own right to elude the first group of enemy men, and then scooted along the east sidelines, outdistancing Hill, Mt. Vernon's safety man, in a chase for the goal line. His 70-yard run put Harding on top, 6-0. Short's attempted placement was wide. Faller returned Short's kick-off 18 yards to the Mt. Vernon 46. Hill made five yards, Wright's pass was incomplete and Kerin punted out of bounds on Marion's 20. Ferguson was thrown for a four-yard loss. Edgington's 47-yard punt was grounded on the Jackets' 27. Wright was stopped in two smashes at the line and Kerin kicked, the ball going out on the Mt. Vernon 41. Roberts' pass was intercepted by Kerin, but the Mounties couldn't get going and Kerin kicked to the Marion 43. Ferguson and Hurst cracked the forward wall for a first down on the Mt. Vernon 38. Ferguson's pass was knocked down and Roberts rifled an aerial to Creasap for 15 yards. Ferguson lost four and Robert's next toss was caught by an ineligible man, the resulting controversy bringing Marion a 15-yard penalty for arguing with the officials. With third and 20, a Roberts-to-Creasap heave was complete for 14 yards, but on the next try Rouse intercepted. Wright made seven, then four, and Rouse cracked through for four, wading to the Mt. Vernon 36 when the half closed.

Third Quarter

Ferguson made a 17-yard return of the half time kick-off being brought down on the Marion 32. Ferguson got four on a line smash and Edington punted to Mt. Vernon's 37. The Jackets were penalized for offside, Wright was stopped after a two-yard gain on a line attempt and Kerin punted to Ferguson, who received on the Marion 35 and returned 12 yards. A Foberts-to-Creasap pass brought Marion a first down on the Mt. Vernon 43. Petty picked up three on a delayed buck. Two line plays were stopped and Edington kicked to the Mt. Vernon 11. Kerin, attempt to punt from behind his own goal, was swept off his feet by on rushing Prexies, Lewis blocking the kick. The ball rolled out of the end zone before it could be covered and Marion received credit for a safety to lead 8-0. Mt. Vernon kicked off from the 20 and Roberts receiving on the Marion 35, cut through a gang of would-be tacklers, and got away along the sidelines for a 57-yard return. He was knocked out of bounds by Ransom on the Mt. Vernon eight-yard line. Ferguson cracked the left side of the line for seven yards and Leo Belknap plunged for the touchdown. Pete Bascos added the extra point with a perfect boot from placement. Schlosser received the kick-off and made a short return, after which the teams traded punts, the third quarters closing with the Jackets having possession on their own 30.

Fourth Quarter

A pass was incomplete, Short smeared the ball carrier for a four-yard loss by cutting in behind the interference and Kerin punted, the ball sailing out on Mt. Vernon's 48. Petty smashed through the line for 15 yards but was called back and Marion penalized for being offside. A Gilbert-to-Ferguson pass was completed for 18 yards, giving Marion's first down on the Mounties' 31. Gilbert lost four on a line try. Officials gave Marion 13 yards when they ruled interference by Mt. Vernon on a pass and the Presidents had a first down on the 24 and were raging goalward. Petty smashed his way 20 yards. On the next try he fumbled but recovered. Ferguson went over his own left tackle the last seven yards for the score and Short racked up another point from placement to run Marion's total to 22-0. Hill returned Marion's kick-off 16 yards to the Mt. Vernon 26. A pass was knocked down and Kerin punted to Ferguson, who returned 15 yards to the Mt. Vernon 47. Petty made nine yards in two tries, but a 15-yard holding penalty, plus a fumble and recovery and a five-yard offside penalty, made it third and 35. Gilbert shot a 10-yard pass over the line to Hodges, who picked up 20 more before being tackled, but Marion was held for downs when the next smash was stopped on the line of scrimmage. Schlesser hurled a 12-yard pass to Culbertson for a first down on the Mt. Vernon 42 but Hodges intercepted the next aerial and the Presidents got the ball on their own 43. A Gilbert-to-Buettin bullet pass over the line was good for four. Gilbert broke away on a sweep to the right for a 33-yard run to the Mt. Vernon 20. Edgington was smothered on a pass attempt, losing 15 yards, but Belknap picked up 12 on the final play of the game.

Ferguson Spectacular

Ferguson got away for the game's longest run, a spectacular 70-yard punt return that brought Marion's first touchdown early in the second quarter. He took the ball on his own 30, swept through an initial covey of opponents, cut for the sidelines and was away for the double stripe.

The third period was only two minutes old when Martin Lewis blocked Dick Kerin's kick behind the Jacket goal line for a safety to put Harding on top 8-0. Charles Roberts brought spectators to their feet when he broke loose for a 57-yard dash on the return of the Mt. Vernon kick-off. Pete Ransom bounced him out of bounds within the 10-yard stripe.

Two plays later Leo Belknap plunged the last yard for a touchdown and Basco's placement was good to run Marion's total to 15. In the final period a 20-yard jaunt by Lou Petty, followed by an 18-yard Gilbert-to-Ferguson pass prepared the stage for the final touchdown. Ferguson, starting from his own seven, went over tackle and made a neat cutback to hit the end zone standing up. Short added the final point from placement.

Marion outplayed the hosts in all departments of the game, but lost effectiveness through fumbles, two of which were recovered by the Jackets. John Edington's punting was as spectacular as usual and it was mainly through his good right foot that Mt. Vernon was kept outside Harding territory during the entire game.

THE MARION STAR

Sophs Taking Top Roles in 1940 Grid Play

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, Associated Press Feature Service

NEW YORK—Sophomore stars are sparking many of the leading college football teams to victory these days.

Perhaps the leading sophomore roles have gone to Boston college's Mike Holovak, 200-pound halfback, and Tennessee's fullback, Bill Nowling. Notre Dame's best end is Bob Dove. Michigan and Minnesota have fine tackles in Al Wistert and Dick Wildung.

Holovak, a star in every Boston game, is fast in the open and possesses, piledriver line-smashing power. Tennessee's Coach Bob Neyland, who likes seasoned players but figured that his veteran team might need the eager spirit of a youngster, boosted Nowling into his first string backfield.

Bernie Bierman at Minnesota is another mentor who ordinarily uses sophomores sparingly, but he rates Wildung as a find. Wistert was the outstanding lineman of the day on the afternoon that Michigan shattered Pennsylvania's hopes. Dove came along so fast this fall that he ousted a flock of veteran wingmen that Elmer Layden had on deck at Notre Dame.

Once-beaten Fordham has two sophomore sensations—a passing back in Steve Filipowicz and an aggressive end in Jim Lansing. Syracuse uncovered a crack youngster in 145-pound Leland (Bunky) Morris, who booted the field goal that gave Syracuse a 3-0 win over Columbia. The Lions also found a pair of first-year aces in Paul Governali and Ken Germann. Governali got away to a 75-yard touchdown run against Dartmouth.

Bill Busik, crack runner and passer, and John McTigue and Allan Cameron are among the sophs that have made Navy a power in the East. Army's Harry Mazur is one of the year's best backs. His 40-yard touchdown run gave the Cadets a tie with Harvard and against Notre Dame he was the best back on the field.

T. A. Weems, Rice halfback, led the charge that beat Texas and has made the Owls a threat in the Southwest. Gene Pickett, with fine performances against Washington and Washington State, and Jim Jurkovich, have been aces for California. Jimmy Reynolds of Oklahoma A & M college led the country's ground gainers through the early part of November.

Charles Bachman at Michigan State came up with Charley Carey in triumphs over Purdue and other mid-west elevens. Baylor boasts a fine sophomore back in Milton Crain and the Texas Aggies have a great prospect in End Bill Henderson. Myrbn Pfeifer, fullback, was Illinois' big gun against Southern California. Wisconsin depends greatly on Mark Hoskins' passes. One of the best of the Southern backs is Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia. Missouri thinks well of young Harry (Slippery) Ice, who scored three touchdowns against Iowa State, and End Jack Lister. Georgetown's veteran unbeaten team finds Jack Doolan a fine halfback. Lou Thomas rates as one of the best at Tulane. Sid Beshunsky of Temple booted the field goal that beat Bucknell. Cliff Wise is Tom Harmon's understudy at Michigan. Billy Yearout sparks Auburn. Jim Youel does the passing for Iowa, Dean Bagley is a T. C. U. whirlwind, and Ray Wolfe, who scored three times against Sewanee, is highly rated at Dartmouth.

OHIO'S SCORING LED BY PINT-SIZE BACK

Mickey Mittage, 145 Pounder, Holds 51 Points.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11 — This may be Armistice day, but the battle for the Ohio collegiate football scoring lead is in full swing.

Little Mickey Mittiga, Kent State's pint-size quarterback (he weighs 145) was held to a single point Saturday as Akron handed the Golden Flashes their first defeat in eight starts, but he stayed atop the heap with 51 markers. That 23-7 victory was Akron's first in eight attempts.

Tony Aiello of Youngstown was idle, sticking at 43 points, and Capt. John Kostoyo of Wittenberg tied him for second place. Kostoyo scored a pair of touchdowns and an extra point in the 26-7 conquest of Marietta which gave the Springfield Indians the Ohio Conference leadership and a tie with Wilberforce for the state-wide No. 1 spot.

Fenton Wolfe, Heidelberg star from Upper Sandusky, who didn't get into the 10-0 losing game against Muskingum, and Bob Nash of Toledo, who failed to score as the Rockets bowed 14-12 to a surprising Baldwin-Wallace club, stayed among the leaders with 42 points.

Next, with 35 each were Capt. Jimmy Langhurst of Ohio, who was idle and Dick Booth, Western Reserve's flashy halfback, who contributed the touchdown that enabled Reserve to beat Ohio university for the first time, 6 to 0.

Schnebly of Wilberforce is the state's best "point-after-touchdowner" with 14 to his credit as well as a field goal. Big Charley Maag, Ohio State tackle, and Don Scott, quarterback, have nine points each, Maag getting his on three field goals and Scott booting nine points after touchdown without a miss.

LA RANCE AND SAVOLDI ON AT SHOVEL TONIGHT

Junior Heavies Paired in 90-Minute Battle.

Wrestling holds sway again tonight at the Marion Steam Shovel arena, the card being headlined by a pair of 90-minute bouts which bring together junior heavyweight grapplers.

Jules LaRance of Canada and Angelo Savoldi of Three Oaks, Mich., meet in the finale. John Silvey of Hamilton, Ont., and Harold Chaundy of Detroit, Mich., are paired for the other main go.

Tex Riley of Amarillo, Tex., and Ned Taylor of Louisville, Ky., meeting in the 20-minute prelim. The show will open at the usual 8:30 starting time.

MARSHALL'S FULLBACK TAKES SCORING LEAD

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 — Jack Hunt, line-smashing fullback of Marshall college in West Virginia, personally scored five touchdowns in his team's victory over Detroit Tech last week-end to take over high individual scoring honors among the nation's footballers with a total of 114 points.

Hunt has crossed the opposition goal line 19 times in 8 games.

Tom Harmon of Michigan, leader most of the season up to now, failed to score in his team's defeat by Minnesota Saturday and dropped into a tie for second place among the sectional leaders with Charles Larson of Colver-Stockton, each with 87 points.

24 PERFECT TEAMS YET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—When a team gets into November without losing a football game, it has to be good. That is seen this week as only two colleges of "major" rating dropped from the unbeaten, untied rating as the list dwindled to 24. Michigan lost a 7-6 decision to Minnesota, also unbeaten and untied and Penn State was tied 13-13 by Syracuse.

Sport World Needs One Universal Code

Robinson Urges Standard Set of Ethics To Govern All Games

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK—What this country seems to need most at the moment—athletically speaking—is a standard code of ethics to govern all sports.

For years we have been plagued with the varied conception of amateurism existing in every section of the land and lately we have been confronted with differing beliefs in the conduct of a game.

Amateurism means one thing in polo; it means something else in tennis, baseball, football and golf.

Not only are the codes different as between sports but the code also vary even in any given sport.

Take football, for example. In some parts of the south a college player is frankly paid but still maintains his amateur standing. Some sections of the north wouldn't stand for that but will permit an alumnus to give a hard running half-back any allowance" he may desire. In still other sections a boy is expected to do some "working for his tuition and spending money. A few colleges adhere to the rigid code and demand that the football star be also at least a student if not a scholar.

Track also is governed by some wacky ideas. A great runner can, and often has done very well for himself on expense accounts. You'd be surprised to know how much some foreigners have been paid—pardon me, "allowed for expenses"—to say nothing of our own athletes. Undoubtedly you know without being told the name of the great foreign runner years ago who received $1,500 expenses for a trip from Manhattan to Brooklyn. The subway fare is five cents.

We can skip over the "amateurs" who made more money in any given year than their rivals in other sports: the tennis and golf stars who found it inconvenient to play in certain events in certain places until wealthy club members assured them the club would buy so many bonds or so much insurance, and upon receiving such insurance the stars suddenly discovered that, after all, they did have that date open and could play.

The public is well used to these fine distinctions but now comes one W. L. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, with charges that Carl Snavely, football coach at Cornell, violated the code in coaching from the bench during Cornell's recent victory over Ohio State.

Now we come to a difference in the code of ethics between different sports but also between coaches in the same sport.

Nobody thinks anything of coaching, during a baseball game, hockey game, a track meet or any other event except football. It is taken for granted; both sides do it and nobody objects. But in football it seems to be a crime for a coach to signal his quarterback to kick on third down whereas the same coach signalling a batter to steal on the next pitch would be considered wholly within his rights.

The amusing part of this sacrosanct code pertaining to football coaching, is that virtually all coaches violate the code and, off the record, admit they do.

For our part, we can't see that it makes much difference if both teams receive the benefit of coaching from the sidelines. As a matter of fact, it might improve the game.

The point we want to stress is that all sports, particularly football, should drop all their petty sham and pretense and decide on one universal code and stick to it.

GRID LEADERS FACE TOUGHIES THIS WEEK

Minnesota Books Purdue, Cornell To Play Dartmouth.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—It takes persistence as well as power to win recognition as champion in any of the big football conferences and as a contender for the mythical national title.

Minnesota, which might easily choose to rest on the laurels won in successive one-point victories over Northwestern and Michigan, runs into Purdue next. That should be a comparatively easy assignment, although the Boilermakers gave Fordham a real scrap Saturday before losing 13-7.

Cornell, the East's ranking power, found Yale stubborn but won 21-0. This week it's Dartmouth and the Indians won't give up without a struggle.

Stanford virtually clinched the Pacific Coast Conference title by beating Washington 20-10. Still there's no assurance that Oregon State won't make trouble this week.

The mighty Texas Aggies beat Southern Methodist 19-7, but that only sent them on to meet Rice, 14-7 winner over Arkansas.

In addition to this "Big Four" the nation's list of unbeaten and untied "major" teams includes Boston college, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Tennessee and Hardin-Simmons.

WAITE GAME REBOOKED

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, Nov., 11—The Toledo Waite High school football game with Portland, Ore., Nov. 30 is on again. The board of education Saturday reconsidered its decision to force cancellation of the contest after the old Newsboy Goodfellows' association agreed to advance its proposed charity game with Waite from Nov. 30 to Nov. 25. Waite previously had expressed reluctance to play the charity tilt because of "unethical athletic activities" charges filed with the board.

FORMER MARIONITE MISSES DEATH TRIP

E. P. Welch Leaves Doomed Ship To Join Navy.

A former Marion resident possibly owes his life to a recent national defense order calling up U. S. Navy reserves to active duty.

Relatives of E. P. Welch, who lived here until about five years ago, reported that until a few weeks ago Mr. Welch had been a member of the crew of the American freighter, City of Rayville, which was sunk under mysterious circumstances off the coast of Australia Saturday. For the last five years Mr. Welch had been first engineer on the freighter and had not missed a voyage until he was called up for active duty in the navy.

The ship was sunk on its first voyage since Mr. Welch left the freighter service and relatives here said that possibly a 22-year-old engineer who lost his lift in the sinking took Mr. Welch's place on the ship's staff. Mr. Welch has three brothers in Marion, Harry Welch of 669½ North Main street, F. D. Welch of Patterson street and Frank Welch of Sheridan road.

Ten model plane enthusiasts from Marion and others from Iberia, Bucyrus, Mansfield and Shelby took part in the event, which was sponsored by the "B" club of Bucyrus.

First prize in a contest for gasoline powered models was won by Harold Heston of Mansfield. Herbert Palmer of Shelby placed second. In the rubber-engine model event, Ned C. Seitz of Marion placed first and Carl Rech of Marion, second. Gene Stapleton and Thomas Babcock, both of Marion, won first and second prizes respectively in an event for "stick" models.

Despite the unfavorable weather only one serious accident marred the event. A large gasoline model, flown by Verlin F. Haines, president of the club, struck a sheep in landing. The sheep was seriously injured but probably will recover, witnesses said. The plane was not damaged.

Mr. Haines reported today that a meeting of the club originally scheduled for tonight has been postponed until later in the week. Thursday night the national defense committee of Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, sponsors of the club, will discuss the club's program and make arrangements for a meeting place for the club.

Hitler and Stalin Plotting Anew as Chamberlain Dies

By the irony of coincidence, Neville Chamberlain died on a day when Germany, which he tried to appease, and Soviet Russia, which he disliked and miscalculated, chose to make it known that they are continuing to collaborate to the detriment of Britain besieged.

Today Soviet Premier Molotoff is traveling to Berlin. There he will see Adolf Hitler and, while it is possible that the two men will meet and talk with a certain wariness, nothing very good for Britain can be expected to come out of their conference.

Hitler may try to make an arrangement, secret or otherwise, whereby Russia will use her influence to sway Turkey away from the British alliance and into the axis camp. In return, Hitler may allot to the U. S. S. R. her sphere of interest in the so-called new order setup, on paper, by the "one for all and all for one" alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan.

May Affect Iran

This "sphere" might embrace Iran, which is squarely on the Soviet southwestern frontier and which is a country with very great oil wealth. This oil wealth has been under Great Britain's thumb.

Of course it is by no means certain that Russia will want to go that far; the Germans, indeed, are careful to say that nothing sensational must be looked for and there has been nothing in Russian pronouncements or activities to show that the Kremlin contemplates any extension of her foreign policy of silent watchfulness. However, it is hard to conceive of anything like a Soviet-German break at this time, in these circumstances.

Many Englishmen believed right along that Chamberlain's mistake in trying to appease Hitler was equalled by his inability to understand or estimate Russia.

1938 Remark

I heard him say, at Lady Astor's luncheon table, that he thought the Red Army would be no good for a long time because all its higher officers had been shot. That statement, somewhat incredible now, was made in the spring of 1938, on the occasion of Chamberlain's first and last attempt to "appease" the American press.

It is true that when he acutled appeasement a year later, Chamberlain did see the wisdom of having Russia on his side, but he bungled the attempt to reach a military alliance with Russia, alienated the Kremlin by dispatching an unknown negotiator to Moscow, and confirmed in the Russian mind the belief that he was trying to push the Soviet Union into a lonely war with Germany, by quibbling over such matters as a definition of "indirect aggression."

DOZEN OHIOANS DIE DUE TO ACCIDENTS

Week-End Toll Includes Nine Fatal Traffic Mishaps.

By The Associated Press

A dozen persons died tragically in Ohio over the week-end, nine of them in traffic.

At Lisbon, 14-year-old Paul Booher was accidentally killed by his companion, Carl Miller, 18, an Ohio State university student, while the youths were target shooting with a pistol.

Portage county officials sought identification of a middle-aged man whose body was found in a culvert near Ravenna. Sheriff Robert L. Fitzgerald said the man might have been slain.

Huron county's traffic toll reached a new all-time high of 21 for the year with the death of Roland T. Frost, 52, of Cleveland. His automobile overturned near Norwalk. The former record of 19 was set in 1936.

Other traffic victims:

Cleveland—four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lillian Willis, in a collision; William Buchalzer, 42, in head-on crash; Frank N. Brown, 43, struck by automobile in suburban North Royalton.

Gallipolis — A. R. McFarland, 83, of Jackson, in crash; Mrs. C. E. Houck, 56, of Bladen, in two-car collision.

Xenia—John W. Smith, 61, hit as he pushed a cart in street.

Van Wert — Arthur Krebs of Westfield, Pa., in automobile-truck crash; Mrs. M. M. Hinton of crash injuries received Oct. 31. Mrs. Hinton was the mother of Walter Hinton who in May 1919, piloted the NC-4 on the first trans-Atlantic flight by heavier-than-air craft.

At Warsaw, Ky., Mrs. Mollie Dyson Lowther, 54, of Tiltonsville, O., was killed in a collision that took the lives of two San Antonio, Tex., men.

Burned to death at Columbus when her bed caught fire was Mrs. Delorex Thompson, 58, a crippled widow.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Nov. 12

UNDER THE urge of the predominant astral influences there may be an irresistible impulse to do strange, untried and extraordinary things. This may be in the direction of launching experimental projects of bold or unusual scope, or there may be an indomitable urge to do old things in original, novel or perhaps revolutionary ways. Such efforts may prove to be workable, practical and constructive, providing such impulse be not carried to extremes, or the attempts be not reckless, wayward or tempestuous.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of surprising progress and achievement through the application of fresh or novel projects or new, original or even radical ways of speeding up old or static situations.

A child born on this day may be willful, erratic, obstinate and impulsive, although having fine initiative and creative talent.

TWO MARION CO. DEATH CLAIMS FILED IN MONTH

142 Applications for Industrial Insurance Listed.

In September 142 claims, including two for fatalities, were filed for Marion county workers with the state industrial commission, according to a report today from the commission's division of safety and hygiene.

Two of the accidents caused permanent partial disability, 16 caused more than seven days of lost time, 15 caused seven days or less and 107 were medical cases only.

Total time lost for September was 13,213 days.

An analysis of the injury and occupational disease claims filed from throughout the state clearly indicates that mounting accident frequency is due to production for defense purposes, the commission reported. Claims mounted in various metal goods groups so much that they led the list in monthly fatalities for the first time in years.
